Every year, hundreds of thousands of people rely on the good that the charitable sector does in communities all across the country. But these days, our work is becoming increasingly complex. Faced with issues that range from abuse to accountability and transparency to legal compliance, we need to be more engaged, more involved, and better informed than ever before.

That's why the Charity Legal Information Project (CLIP) is inviting you to join us this February at our Being Good at Doing Good conference and explore key issues that charities face today
